Monthly Manager Commentary

A positive month for UK equities was dominated by large-cap strength, with a more mixed month for small and mid-caps. From a positive perspective, the labour market continues to gently loosen and there was a positive surprise for inflation, which remained at 3.8% versus the 4.0% market expectation. With pricing pressures expected to moderate from here, we would hope the Bank of England can recommence rate cuts, perhaps as early as December. On the negative side, speculation continues around the Budget on 26th November, albeit the Chancellor does appear to recognise the need to avoid the inflationary mistakes of her first Budget. Furthermore, should the Chancellor increase Income tax rates, as looks increasingly likely, this would be deflationary and could drive further and quicker rate cuts. Given the lowly ratings of UK small and mid-cap companies, a combination of rate cuts and policy certainty should provide a positive backdrop.

A number of the Fund's holdings saw quite meaningful moves down in the month showing the risk-off nature of the small-mid cap market at the moment. The fund's 3 largest detractors, Accesso down 16%, Big Technologies down 18% and Team Internet down 27%, all fell despite a lack of material newsflow. From a positive perspective, Next 15 performed well after an in-line set of interim results and a continued focus of portfolio simplification. Man Group was also strong amidst signs of improving performance for their key AHL funds, and PPHC performed well ahead of its dual listing in the US. On the transaction front, we exited Alphawave and reduced our Alpha Group International holding, both subject to agreed takeover bids. We also reduced Sigmaroc and Computacenter on recent share price strength. On the buy side, we continued to build up holdings in Pinewood, Mortgage Advice Bureau and Bloomsbury.
